

Palo Alto Networks to Discuss Cyber Security Innovations at 16th Annual AT&T Cyber Security Conference

September 3, 2014

SANTA CLARA, Calif., Sept. 3, 2014 /PRNewswire/ -- Palo Alto Networks® (NYSE: PANW), the leader in enterprise security, today announced that its CSO Rick Howard will be presenting at the 16th Annual AT&T Cyber Security Conference in New York City on September 4, 2014.

The AT&T Cyber Security Conference is an annual technology event offered by the AT&T Chief Security Office to offer businesses powerful weapons in the battle against cyber security attacks with advice from notable security experts.

Howard's session is titled, "Help Me Obi Wan – You're My Only Hope: Four Cyber Security Innovations to Give You Courage."

Quote:

- "We see it in the news almost every day: a bad guy exploits a weakness in a good guy's cybersecurity measures and steals valuable information. But things are getting better, thanks to four cybersecurity innovations that will fundamentally change how security professionals do their jobs in the future. These measures include moving away from deploying tactical siloed defenses to a more modern enterprise platform approach that applies to the entire kill-chain, the sharing of threat information between peers, and the adoption of next-generation firewall technology."
– Rick Howard, Chief Security Officer, Palo Alto Networks
